Miss Larocque Leaves Society for the Stage

Miss Theodora Larocque.

Daughter of Joseph Larocque Has Speaking Part in 'The Charm School.'

Miss Theodora Larocque, one of the best known members of the young set of New York and Newport, has given up Mrs. William B. Osgood Field has come from Lenox to the St. Regis to spend a few days.

From the conventionality of real life in representative society to its simulation on the professional stage is not as radical a step to-day as it was a few years ago. Miss Larocque's observation that "you must be something these days" is typical of the modern spirit of society illustrated previously by Miss Dorothy Bigelow, daughter of Mr. Poultney Bigelow, who has made a success in musical comedy, and Mrs. Morgan Belmont, who soon will make her debut as a screen actress.

As Aliz Mercier, a young French girl "The Charm School," Miss Larocque Pranklin D. Roosevelt. Mrs. Daniels is one of a vivacious group of members of the senior class in a select boarding school, and as such imparts distinction to several episodes of the amusing comedy of which her aunt, Mrs. Henry Wise Miller, better known to the reading public as Alice Duer Miller, is co-author with Robert Milton. The members of the senior class are all pretty and furnish many laughable sketches of juvenile characters. It is all very polite but resh humor
